

TRUCK NO. 10 GETS JOHNSTON STANDARD

Commissioner Brownlow Honors Fire Company for Best Efficiency Showing.

Commissioner Brownlow this afternoon presented to truck company No. 10, in K street southwest, the Johnston trophy, a cavalry standard, presented to the Fire Department by former Commissioner John A. Johnston, and awarded each year to the truck company declared by a committee of citizens to be the best in points of efficiency, drill, appearance, and care of equipment and apparatus. The presentation was made without ceremony in the presence of Commissioners Newman and Kutz, Mayor Raymond W. Pullman, Chief Frank J. Wagner, and other officials of the District government.

Engine Company No. 7, in street between Ninth and Tenth streets northwest, will celebrate with a reception and banquet tonight the winning of the Macfarland trophy, an American silk flag presented to the Fire Department by former Commissioner H. B. F. Macfarland, and awarded each year to the engine company making the best showing.

W. F. Gude, of the Chamber of Commerce, will act as toastmaster. Commissioner Brownlow will make the presentation address, and among the other speakers will be Commissioners Newman and Kutz, P. F. Moran, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Simon Wolf, H. B. F. Macfarland, and Charles T. Gill, president of the National Association. Edwin P. Goodwin is chairman of the banquet committee. The members of the winning companies are: No. 7, Engine E. Howard; captain, J. M. Grant; and C. J. Gockeler. The members of the winning companies are: No. 10, Engine E. Howard; captain, J. M. Grant; and C. J. Gockeler. The members of the winning companies are: No. 10, Engine E. Howard; captain, J. M. Grant; and C. J. Gockeler.

Senor Heeren Dies At Newport Summer Home

Senor Don Pedro Stanley Heeren, second secretary of the Spanish embassy, died yesterday at Newport from a complication of diseases. He had been in a critical condition for two weeks.

Senor Heeren went to Newport early in the summer to establish his residence at the Ennis cottage. He was in poor health most of the summer, his wife and two brothers were with him when he died.

It was less than a year ago that Senor Heeren joined the embassy. He was the son of Count and Countess de Heeren, of Biarritz. His wife was Miss Halton, of France. Besides his wife he is survived by two daughters, one four and the other six years old. His funeral services will be held from St. Joseph's Church at Newport tomorrow.

Plays and Players at the Theaters

POLIS.

"Under the Red Robe," a play of love and adventure in the days of Cardinal Richelieu, full of velvet costumes, sword play, and swooning ladies, is the attraction at the Poli Theater this week.

In the hands of the Poli Players it is well done. At a time when five New York shows postponed their openings, while Washington was excusing itself from anything and everything in account of the intense heat, and while special concessions were being made in almost every playhouse in the path of the heat waves, the Poli Players were spending the mornings rehearsing "Under the Red Robe," and the afternoons and evenings in playing "Excuse Me."

Sustaining the principal roles of this drama are A. H. Van Buren, who appears as the hero, Gil de Berault; Florio, who appears as an effeminate, part of Renee de Cochefort; Mark Kent, who plays Richelieu; and Russell Fillmore, who appears as an effeminate, part of Renee de Cochefort; Mark Kent, who plays Richelieu; and Russell Fillmore, who appears as an effeminate, part of Renee de Cochefort.

Without any sell for the part he is forced to play, but willing to take one chance to save his life, de Berault enters into a home where there are two women, the wife and sister of the woman man already disgusted with his mission, sick in heart and soul, he is thrown into a room with a woman, who is a noble from his soul betrays his trust, but keeps his honor.

The drama has the blessing of at least moving swiftly, and even though toward a certain end, and truly the old fashioned puritanic heroine, and the thoroughly bad but at last regretted hero are not the latest thing in stage types, they tell a fascinating and alluring story.

Stage settings and costumes are historically correct. F. E. YODER.

GAYETY.

A snappy and entertaining song show is that being given this week at the company is one of the best known of the burlesque organizations and this year fully maintains the high standard for which it is famous. The performance opens with a laughable musical melange entitled "Manless Isle," and of Tim Riley, a retired, the efforts played by Jack Conway, to obtain many lives in many different climes bring a laugh every minute. The scenes range from a London hotel to rural Holland, thence to the bull ring in old Madrid, to a mystic island in Africa and finally to a mystic island in Africa and finally to a mystic island in Africa.

Naturally, the scenic and lighting effects are elaborate, while the costumes carry the show along with a rush and he has some capable assistants in Sam Bachan, William Petrie, and Tim Hyde. The subject in this case being a young girl, her early life is passed under the influence of a professional hypnotist. The development of the evil job, only to lose it when the Becky side of her nature manifests itself. She finally finds refuge finally in the home of Dr. Emerson, a nerve specialist, whose young assistant, Dr. Arnold, an expert scientific, is in love with her, and helps to expel the Becky side of her life. Balsara traces her to Emerson where, under the influence of hypnotism, he confesses that Dorothy is Emerson's own daughter. The old hypnotist's power is broken, and Dorothy becomes the bride of Arnold.

The play has been produced for the Laskey Company by Frank Reicher, who produced the original play with Belasco. Theodor Roberts appears as Balsara and Carlyle Blackwell as Dr. Arnold. The last act of the week, "The Explorer," also a Laskey production.

LYCEUM.

The Rector Girls were the initial attractions at the Lyceum yesterday and to judge from the applause which greeted the performance the opening was a success.

The company is headed by Abe Leavitt, a comedian of ability, whose clever humor kept the audience in continual laughter. He is assisted in his efforts by Al Hiler, Ray Leavitt, and George Campbell.

The female contingent is headed by Marion Campbell and Emma Cook. The work of the choir of the Lyceum is lively and vivacious; costumes and scenic effects lend additional charm to the company.

Arrests Follow Clash Between Whites and Negroes as 'Birth of a Nation' Is Shown.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21.—The district attorney's office began an investigation today to determine if possible the identity of the persons who instigated the agitation that last night resulted in a riot between 500 negroes and 100 policemen in front of the Forrest Theater, where the photo play "Birth of a Nation" is being shown.

The agitation among the negroes, it is said, started two weeks ago. Last night a huge demonstration was planned in front of the theater. The riot started when Arthur Lunn, nineteen, hurled a brick through a theater window. His action reacted upon a crowd of 500 other negroes, fifty of whom charged the entrance of the theater. Fifty policemen repulsed the rush and when re-enforcements arrived from other stations, the negroes dispersed, leaving behind half a dozen with cracked heads. Fully a score were injured.

At the moment when it was thought the main body of the negroes had dispersed down Broad street, a second disturbance was begun in the corner of Walnut and Broad. There a negro threw a brick, which struck "Patrolman" William Miller on the right arm. The officer turned on his assailant with a club and the negro ran with the policeman in pursuit.

Fifty city comrades followed Stricker and they were joined by a yelling mob of 1,000 whites, but the negro assailant escaped.

A printed card was circulated in the negro sections of the city during the day. This card contained the following announcement:

"Rally! Rally! Rally!" "All colored citizens and their white friends and sympathizers are earnestly urged to assemble at the Forrest Theater, Broad and Sansom streets, on Monday night at 8 o'clock to make a dignified protest against the photo play known as 'The Birth of a Nation,' which is a horrible libel on and a mocking insult to every Afro-American."

Physical examination of prospective policemen during the past week marked the passing of "coppers" with flat pedal extremities, and several candidates have just been apprised of the fact that their feet do not conform to requirements. It is a fact that several husky young men were turned down by the police surgeons on the ground that their feet were flat.

It has not developed whether Major Pullman wishes to have "cops" with a sprightly step during his regime or whether the policemen have long been maligned as a flat-footed aggregation when as a matter of fact there has always been a regulation prohibiting flat feet.

LATE PUPILS JAM SCHOOL BUILDINGS

Real Congestion Is Feared During Latter Part of Week. Shifts Planned.

Though the school enrollment on the first day this year exceeded by nearly 300 that reported on the opening day last year, no half-day sessions as yet are necessary. Several divisions are crowded, including those in the "hill section" of the northwest and in the southeast, but all pupils are being cared for in regular classes.

Total enrollment yesterday for all white and colored schools was 47,391, as compared with 44,436 last year. In the third division the heaviest increase in the grade schools was shown. There the enrollment jumped from 4,069 last year to 4,408.

At Central High School the enrollment was 1,121. The real congestion, Superintendent Thurston fears, will come toward the latter part of the week. Then the late comers will begin to arrive, and many classes that are now just at the opening will be increased, thus making necessary a shifting of many pupils.

It has not developed whether Major Pullman wishes to have "cops" with a sprightly step during his regime or whether the policemen have long been maligned as a flat-footed aggregation when as a matter of fact there has always been a regulation prohibiting flat feet.
